Do mothers of children who have developed islet or coeliac autoantibodies show ongoing increased perceived stress?

642 antibody negative children

97 islet autoantibody positive children

79 coeliac autoantibody positive children

Development of islet or coeliac autoantibodies in young children did not add significantly to the later perceived stress of their mothers

Past maternal mental health and associated medications, but not maternal type 1 diabetes, related to increased perceived stress

